Job description:

About the F.U.N Program

The F.U.N. program is a blended learning program designed by Prepr to support youth who face employment barriers by giving them highly desirable skills, including employability skills, digital skills as well as Prepr's signature PIE method (project leadership, innovation & entrepreneurship) for interdisciplinary problem-solving. What makes the F.U.N program even better is that you will be matched with a potential employer in Ontario at the end of your training, and have the opportunity to complete a 12 week paid work placement.

Job description

We are looking for youth with education or experience in graphic design. If offered a job, you may be responsible for coordinating and delivering digital media, including videos, graphics and more. You will support the creation of concepts and designs for new digital projects. You will be responsible for ensuring the new promotional and graphic materials that are produced are consistent with the company brand and needs. You may work with others including marketing and technology team members. This is an incredible opportunity to get real world experience. Here's what a past program graduate had to say about her experience:

"I was interested in digital marketing before, but the program has encouraged me to learn more and expand on that. I learned how to connect my creative and design skills to the business world. The program showed me what kinds of opportunities were open to me."

Eligibility

- You are between 15 and 30 years of age
- You are a resident of Ontario
- You are able to commit for the duration of the program
- Individuals from black communities, indigenous communities, visible minorities, persons with disabilities and women are encouraged to apply
- You have either studied or have experience in design, information technology (coding/ computing etc.), marketing or business
